Introduction

The XVIII SIIV Summer School will be devoted to the topics concerning the knowledge related to "Sustainable Pavement Design and Road Materials".

Pavement sustainability refers to the impacts of pavement on environment, economy, and society, which involves material selection, design, construction, as well as preservation strategies. Sustainable pavements are highly dependent on the selection of appropriate materials, since road materials have significant effect on pavement durability, material usage, transportation safety, life cycle cost, maintenance strategy, environmental impacts, and so on. In recent years, an important part of the research has been devoted to the development and evaluation of advanced road materials for sustainable pavement design, construction, and maintenance. However, sustainable pavement involves a wide range of issues to be investigated, and many of them have not been solved yet.

Venue

Parthenope University of Naples was established in 1919 by the Vice Admiral Leonardi Cattolica with the name "Regio Istituto Superiore Navale". Born as an institute of higher education specialized in maritime studies: marine science, maritime economics and logistics. In 1999, the departments of Law, Engineering and Sports Sciences were added to the two long-standing ones of Economics and Nautical Science which jointly brought the Institute significant growth in the number of students. Then, the name of the Institute officially changed to "Parthenope University of Naples".

Villa Doria d'Angri is the most important neoclassical mansion in Posillipo hill, it was commissioned by Prince Marcantonio Doria d'Angri (1809-1837) to the architect Bartolomeo Grasso (1773-1835), who completed the construction in 1833. This monumental villa is the expression of the greatest artists and artisans of the time. It gleams in all its ancient splendour and features a park with a total area of over 18.000 square metres. The villa is used as a venue for international meetings and events, seminars and cultural initiatives. Since 2000, Villa Doria d'Angri hosts the Naval Museum. The Museum has included a collection of approximately 160 ship models and navigation tools, the oldest ones dating back to 1920, the year of foundation of the Institute. The collection represents an important testimony of the scientific history of the university and is a valuable didactic support to nautical studies and to the diffusion of a sea culture.

How to reach the Venue

Upon request, we can arrange a shared taxi service to Hotel Paradiso, both from Napoli Centrale Station and from Capodichino Airport on September 5th, charged to the participants. If you are interested, please communicate your estimated time and place of arrival as soon as possible to siivsummerschool2022@gmail.com.

7th SIIV ARENA

The SIIV ARENA is an important opportunity for young researchers to propose their work in progress research.

The applicants should fill the attached registration form for the SIIV ARENA and send both the registration form and the Long Abstract, prepared according to the specific template attached, to siivsummerschool2022@gmail.com.

The documents transmitted will be selected by the Scientific Committee for the presentation (that will take place on September 9th, 2022) and publication in the SIIV ARENA proceedings.

SIIV will assign four awards based on the following criteria:

- best experimental activity;
- best technological impact;
- best innovative idea;
- best methodological approach.

Abstract submission deadline: June 30th 2022
